Get-tough stance on pubs 'a whitewash'

BY John Goode
Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

A GOVERNMENT call for tough action against pubs and night clubs which break their licences has been branded a "whitewash".

Newmarket's former Mayor, Cllr Warwick Hirst, who has unsuccessfully fought two recent licence applications in the town, made the comment after the Government called for a "yellow card, red card" scheme to tackle street violence and disorder which has followed the relaxation of drinks laws.

The Government has warned that licences could be taken away if pubs and clubs failed to respond to warnings.

Cllr Hirst said: "I would have expected the Government to say that the Licensing Act was working, but I think it has been a disaster."

He said the Act put more responsibility – and expense – on councils and the police in tackling the problems arising from longer drinking hours.

"It's not so much the behaviour of people on the licensed premises that is the problem, it's after they leave the premises."

A licence application approved in the past month has allowed a filling station to sell alcohol 24 hours a day on most days of the week. A burger restaurant was also allowed to stay open until 1am to cater for late-night revellers.

Both applications were opposed by the police, the town council and some nearby residents.

The town centre has been declared a "cumulative impact area" which should make it more difficult for late licences to be given and action to be taken to enforce regulations. But in practice it has made no difference.

Cllr Hirst said the town had become a "no-go" area for residents at weekend nights because of disturbances caused by revellers.

"It is very difficult to resist licences for 24-hour drinking," he said.

Large pub chains and other companies could appeal against the district council's refusal of a licence – and the council could be landed with the costs of the appeal.

Pupils hedge bets for future

SCHOOL pupils have planted saplings which they hope will grow into a hedgerow.

Youngsters at Newmarket's Fairstead House School planted the saplings, supplied by the Woodland Trust, to create a wildlife habitat in the grounds of the school in Fordham Road.

The saplings should produce hedging of hawthorn, hazel, holly, dog rose, dogwood and buckthorn.

The planting session follows a visit by pupils last week to the Woodland Trust's site at Church Farm, Great Eversden, where they took part in a tree-planting event.

The event was just one of several at Woodland Trust properties all around the UK and part of their Tree for All campaign, which they describe as "a new kind of movement that gives children the chance to understand nature and the power to care for it."

The aim of the campaign is to plant 12 million new trees in the UK by the end of 2009 – that is, one for every child under 16.

Community service crew to clean up graffiti

PEOPLE completing community service as part of a court sentence will help to clean up graffiti in a village.

The probation service has agreed to draft in people carrying out unpaid community work to paint over graffiti "tags" in Red Lodge.

It is the latest move to tackle graffiti in the village.

At the end of last year a graffiti mural was created by young people in the village, organised by Forest Heath District Council and the Community Crew, as a way of giving them an outlet for their "art".

Now the latest measures organised by the Iceni Safer Neighbourhood Team include painting over the graffiti which has been illegally painted.

Police community support officer Tim Hartup said: "The team has been working hard with its partners to get graffiti cleaned up and to keep the area looking tidy.

"This coming weekend some unsightly tags are being painted over at the garage blocks in Sanfoin Close, by the public footpath leading from Warren Road into Broomhill Close, thanks to the probation service. The community has had to endure this mess and we are grateful for the donation of paint from the trustees of the Millennium Centre to help make this area a more pleasant place."

Stud hopes to attract racegoers

NEWMARKET'S National Stud is offering additional tours this year to tie in with a series of pop concerts.

The Stud will be running tours before Friday night race meetings at the next door July Racecourse during the summer.

The evening race meetings, followed by pop music concerts, attract thousands of visitors and the Stud is hoping that some will want to see foals, mares and stallions to learn more about how a racehorse is bred.

Tina Dawson, National Stud commercial director, said: "Racegoers park in our paddocks for the Friday night meetings and are probably oblivious they are on the National Stud.

We hope that some of them will want to come on tours which will start at 4pm on those race nights."

The 500-acre stud is one of only a few throughout the world that is regularly open to the public.

Its tour season got under way on March 1 and will run until the end of September. Additional tours will be held during October half-term week and private tours can also be arranged for small groups.

A new addition to the stallion line-up at the stud is 2000 Guineas winner Cockney Rebel who is expected to "cover" more than 100 mares – at a fee of £10,000 each – this year, his first as a stud stallion.

Visitors can also see Grand National winner Amberleigh House, who is in retirement and as a gelding cannot take part in breeding activities.

The stud's miniature Shetland ponies are popular with children who can take part in a drawing competition for under eight-year-olds.

There will be monthly winners in the contest sponsored by Grays of Shenstone, which supplies children's gifts to the stud. An overall winner will be chosen from the monthly winners.

Crucial event for students

HUNDREDS of children will take part in the week-long annual Crucial Crew event which starts on March 10.

Nearly 600 pupils from schools throughout the Forest Heath district will take part in the event, organised by the Forest Heath Crime Prevention Panel and sponsored by the former Mildenhall Charity Shop.

The youngsters will take part in a eight scenarios, at Mildenhall Stadium, to help them to cope with emergencies and situations which might put them at risk.

They will include fire safety, first aid, cycle safety, ways to prevent anti-social behaviour and internet safety.

Musical hit

Performances are open to the public and will be staged on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Around 50 students from Years 9 to 13 are taking part in the show which was a hit movie in 1978 starring John Travolta and Olivia Newton-John and is currently being performed professionally on the West End stage.

Tickets, price £5 for adults and £3 for students and pensioners, are available from the college office (01638) 664412.

Burwell show

ACTIVITIES available in a growing village will be on show at a special exhibition this weekend.

The Burwell at Large exhibition, held every two years, will be staged at the village college on Saturday and Sunday.

Members of groups, societies, charities and classes will show what they do and give people a chance to join them.

Entry is free of charge.

New moves in sheikh's bid to buy Liverpool FC

FORMER Cambridge businesswoman Amanda Staveley is reported to be leading the latest bid by leading racehorse owner Sheikh Mohammed to buy Liverpool FC.

Ms Staveley, who formerly headed the Q.ton centre on Cambridge Science Park and was romantically linked with Prince Andrew, is reported by The Times Online to be leading the talks for the takeover of Liverpool by Dubai International Capital (DIC), the investment arm of the oil-rich state's government.

The Sheikh, ruler of Dubai, owns thousands of acres of land near Newmarket through his Darley horsebreeding operation as well as stables in the town through his Godolphin Racing set up.

According to The Times, Ms Staveley could be in line for a top job at Liverpool if the takeover succeeds.

She is believed to have met the Sheikh through horse racing and is reported to be a "most trusted" adviser to him.

A bid by DIC to take over Liverpool last year foundered and current American owners Tom Hicks and George Gillett stepped in.

Now it is reported that the Americans' interest in the club has waned.

Mr Gillett is reported to be interested in selling his share in the club, although Mr Hicks has been quoted in an American newspaper as saying he would block any sale which would need his approval.

Sameer al-Ansari, chief executive of DIC, said this week that there had been talks with the current owners.

A Dubai link with Liverpool would not be a departure for the oil-rich state.

Horse centre team 'more confident' over Olympics

BY John Goode

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

THE team behind a bid to bring Olympic competitors to Newmarket say they are "more confident than ever" of success – despite not being included in a first round of sites for training camps.

Stetchworth Equine, which is planning to create a new horse centre just outside the town, is now intending to work closely with LOCOG – the London Olympics organising committee – to bring the £30 million scheme to fruition.

Larry LeGgatt, one of the men behind the scheme, said: "We didn't expect to be included in this first draft handbook which lists existing facilities or those with planning permission.

"But we are actually more confident now that the list has been submitted. We are in direct contact with LOCOG – which we were not allowed to be previously.

"They have contacted us saying it's a very exciting opportunity and they would like to work with us directly."

The scheme, a collaboration between leading horse vets Greenwood Ellis and Partners and the Duke of Sutherland's Stetchworth Estates, would see the centre being built on land between the A1303 and A1304 roads close to Newmarket's July racecourse.

The aim is to provide "world class" facilities for equine teams taking part in the 2012 games and leave a legacy of a "horse park" for Newmarket.

Greenwood Ellis are already having a major horse hospital built on an adjoining piece of land. The hospital should be complete by August.

Mr LeGgatt said that talks had already been held with East Cambridgeshire District Council about creating the centre, which would include a hotel with nearly 100 rooms, on the green field site.

"We are probably 10 days from putting in an application for planning permission," he said. "There is a lot of work to do because it is a sensitive area and we have to consider the best interests of neighbours, the site and Newmarket.

"For 10 or 15 years a group of people in Newmarket have been trying to get a 'Home of the Horse' here like they have at Chantilly in France and Kentucky in the USA. We are using the 2012 Olympics as a catalyst to achieve this. Newmarket is, without doubt, the most obvious choice (for an Olympic training centre)."

Gold medal winner joins fundraising fun

OLYMPIC athlete Julian Golley helped children at a village school to raise money from sponsored exercises.
Julian, a triple jumper who has won a Commonwealth Games gold medal, took part in activities at Burwell Village College Primary School as part of the Superschools scheme which benefits the schools taking part as well as Britain's athletes.
Youngsters took part in sessions in year groups.
On the same day, pupils in the school choir were recorded by radio station Q103.

WOMEN'S World day of Prayer services will be held tomorrow at Mildenhall Methodist Church at 10.30am and Mildenhall Baptist Church at 7pm. Speaker at the morning service will be Beryl Secrett and the speaker at the evening service will by Margaret Swettenham. The services are open to everyone.

USAF probe into YouTube drugs film

The YouTube film claims to show "what really happens on and off RAF Mildenhall air base".

Investigators at the base, the home of the US Air Force's 100th Air Refuelling Wing, are studying the video to establish whether it is genuine and whether the person shown is a serviceman.

A statement issued by the base said the video appeared to show "illegal drug activity" although its origin was not clear.

Captain Tisha Wright, director of public affairs at the base, said "appropriate action" would be taken following an investigation.

Service personnel are subject to random urine tests to check for drugs.

Two-thirds of the base population is randomly selected for drug screening throughout the year. The number of positive test results for illegal drugs amount to a very small fraction of one per cent.

Lt Col Mark Allison, staff judge advocate for the Wing, said: "Over the past three years at RAF Mildenhall, we have had two convictions of active duty members for illegal drugs use."

'Whitewash' on drink law

■ From Page 1

Another former mayor of Newmarket, Cllr Robin Millar, said: "This is an enforcement issue and it all costs money.

"It's a matter of having to solve a problem which was created in the first place by giving longer licensing hours.

"It costs councils and other authorities – and the council tax payers in turn."

Cllr Millar chairs Forest Heath District Council's overview and scrutiny committee which is due to consider issues surrounding licence applications next week.

Bike stolen

The orange KTM scramble bike was stolen from Wings Road, Lakenheath, on Wednesday, February 27. A window and door to the garage were damaged in the incident.

Charitable trust seeks applications

A CHARITY which raised £3,000 at a Valentine's dinner-dance has appealed for applications to help spend the cash.

The ABC Charitable Trust raised the money at the event, held at Newmarket Racecourse, when "million dollar" notes autographed by personalities including jockeys Lester Piggott and Frankie Dettori, Arsenal manager Arsene Wenger and Apollo 13 astronaut Jim Lovell were auctioned.

Simon Gibson, a trustee of the charity, said: "Since the inception of the ABC Charitable Trust we have given money to very worthwhile individuals, families and institutions.

"We have given £200 for library books to a local village library and over £1,000 to purchase a bicycle trailer for a child suffering from quadriplegic cerebral palsy as well as many other grants in between.

"Our trustees look at every request we receive, but the biggest problem we have is that we are just not getting enough requests for help. Thanks to events like the Valentine's Ball, we have a healthy bank balance which we would like to spend on local worthwhile causes."

If you would like more information on the ABC Charitable Trust or if you would like them to help you, contact them via www.abctrustea.org.uk or email info@abctrustea.org.uk

Crime rate up despite target

A POLICE chief has admitted that a targeted reduction in crime is unlikely to be achieved.

Crime in the Newmarket area is up by more than 4 per cent – although a target of a 1 per cent reduction had been set.

Latest figures show there were 2,083 recorded crimes in the 10 months to the end of January, compared to 2,000 in the same period last year.

Chief Insp Michael Holdsworth, Forest Heath district police commander, told members of Newmarket Town Council the target of a 1 per cent cut in crime – set last March – was not likely to be achieved.

He said the main reason for the increase was "early intervention" by police officers who issue fixed penalty "on the spot" fines for public order offences in Newmarket High Street on weekend nights.

The police were clamping down on swearing in the street and urinating in shop doorways to discourage more serious offences of violence.

■ NO-GO . . . Cllr Warwick Hirst.

But the police action had increased the number of offences recorded as "violent".

The latest figures show there were 644 offences recorded as violent during the past 10 months – compared to 558 in the same period last year.

But Chief Insp Holdsworth said the bulk of offences recorded had not involved actual violence, even though they were categorised as such.

He said: "Actual violence has gone down."

Drug offences have also shown an increase with 148 recorded in the past 10 months – compared to 91 last year and just over 100 in the two previous years.

Chief Insp Holdsworth said the figures reflected the success the police were having in tackling drug problems.

Sniffer dogs had been brought in to check customers queuing to get into the town's nightclubs and "quite a lot of class A" drugs had been seized.

A cannabis farm in a house in the town had also been raided.

But Councillor Warwick Hirst, former mayor of Newmarket, said the town had become a "no-go" area for residents at night because of the violence and anti-social behaviour on the streets.

"It is almost two towns – it is different at night from during the day," he said.

"The police do a wonderful job, but it's just a few of them against hundreds of people on the streets at night."

Police link walk-in house burglaries

WALK-IN thieves have struck at houses in Mildenhall and Lakenheath.

The incidents are the latest in a spate of burglaries where thieves have got in through unlocked doors.

The two burglaries, in Hornbeam Road, Mildenhall, and Lime Close, Lakenheath, are believed to have happened on the same night and are being linked by the police.

A purse was stolen from the house in Mildenhall which was burgled between 10.30pm on Tuesday, February 26 and 10am the next day.

A handbag, keys and wallet were stolen from the Lakenheath house between 12.45am and 7am on Wednesday, February 27.

Anyone with information about the thefts should call Pc Lloyd Shelley at Mildenhall Police on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Post office conversion plans set for rejection

PLANS to convert a town's last remaining sub-post office into flats are being opposed by councillors.

Members of Forest Heath District Council's planning committee have said they intend to refuse permission for the conversion of the shop and post office at Exning Road, Newmarket.

Their decision was against the advice of council planning experts who said the scheme was acceptable.

The committee's decision may not save the sub-post office from closure, but it could block the conversion plans.

If it does close, the town will be left with only the main post office in the High Street. Two other sub-post offices, in New Cheveley Road and Valley Way, have closed in the past four years.

District council rules require the application to be reconsidered at next month's planning committee meeting.

Newmarket Town Council objected to the scheme on the grounds of over-development and a lack of parking spaces for the new flats.

Some people living near the post office, at the junction with King Edward Road, have supported the scheme. But others called for the post office to be saved.

The plans involve largely internal alterations to create three flats and two bedsits. A garage which is part of the existing shop and post office would be converted into living accommodation if the scheme is allowed to go ahead.

District council planner Dave Beighton said in a report to the committee: "It is not considered that the loss of this convenience store and post office would cause demonstrable harm to the availability of such shopping facilities within the area."

But councillors disagreed and argued that the conversion should not go ahead.

Cllr Warwick Hirst said the committee's main concern was a lack of parking spaces for residents of the proposed flats.

"Losing a post office is not a material planning consideration," he said.

Supermarket's champagne launch

SHOPPERS flocked to a new supermarket when it opened its doors for the first time.

Sainsbury's has taken over the former Budgens store in Mildenhall and relaunched it with an opening ceremony.

The takeover is aimed at giving the grocery chain a presence in the town in advance of the construction of a new store which is scheduled to be ready in about two years.

Frederick Theobald, the longest-serving staff member at Budgens, helped the new store manager, Tracy Mulchansingh, to cut the ribbon to open the rebranded St Andrew's Street store.

Mr Theobald was among 62 former Budgens workers who transferred to Sainsbury's.

The new owners have also provided an additional 35 jobs.

A Sainsbury's spokesman said a formal planning application for the new shop, due to be built nearby in Recreation Way, would be submitted to Forest Heath District Council this month.

The new outlet is seen by the council as a major step in the town's regeneration.

School change – focus on how

Sir, In response to the letter from Ruth Allen (Support for three-tier system, Weekly News Letters, February 28).

I too am delighted that Newmarket College had a school council meeting in Suffolk County Council's debating chamber and am pleased to say that many other local schools are having the chance to do the same.

I too agree it is very important for people to realise from a young age how important communication is in order to get things done.

I too feel we have a long way to go in encouraging people to stick to what they believe in, to feel confident to express ideas and beliefs and not give up on them for fear they will not be heard or listened to.

However, and this is where we differ, she maintained that the above principles also mean you should not be swayed by the majority's idea.

But if a pupils' debate in the council chamber is designed to do anything it is to teach the guiding principles of democracy. Yes hold strong views, yes communicate and debate your ideas and beliefs with conviction. But once the debate is over and a vote is cast, then be swayed by the majority's idea or at least accept the majority view, for that is democracy.

Having listened carefully to both sides of the arguments for and against two and three-tier schooling in our part of Suffolk I can assure her that there was not an "overpowering message" in favour of our current three-tier schooling. Many pupils, along with parents, teachers, governors and headteachers and the general public were just as forceful if less vocal in their support of change.

I voted in favour of the School Organisation Review proposal which is a much wider review than just the question of two or three tier schooling and was and is as much about raising the aspiration, standards and attainment across all of our schools.

With the decision made, county education officers are spending this year looking at how best to implement the decision in our area.

I am pleased to be chairing the Forest Heath area's Stakeholder Forum meetings where we, the 60 or so parents, teachers, governors, headteachers, district and county councillors, community and business leaders, union representatives and sports officers; are working with the county officers to help shape proposals to move forward to a wider consultation to be taken to every school in our area later this year for all parents, children, governors and teachers to have their say.

The work has very much begun and it is disappointing to hear Mrs Allen say that there is very little information being offered. She was invited to join the forum and had she been able to attend the second of the meetings hopefully she would have been struck, as I have been, by the quality and quantity of information presented to us thus far. Hopefully she will be able to come along to the next meeting.

Absolutely central to the original decision and I believe already highlighted by the forum as a fundamental guiding principle is that no child's education should suffer during the transition period and the ultimate proposals must clearly demonstrate the safeguards and how this will be monitored, measured and achieved.

With regards her comment that 'if the Isle of Wight can do it, why not us?' I have been in contact with the leader of its council and they have just completed a consultation process on three options – two of which are two-tier, and I understand the results of the consultation are to be published next week, with a decision on their review coming shortly. Progress of this can be followed at http://eduwight.iow.gov.uk/schools/reorganisation/

I take this opportunity to encourage Mrs Allen to come along and get involved in the Stakeholder Forum to which she has been invited. Many others who did not agree with the original decision are already contributing to the debate on how to get the best outcomes for Newmarket and all of Forest Heath's children, I look forward to meeting her at the next meeting.

Suffolk county councillor and assistant portfolio holder – Resource Management and Transformation

Planning decisions must have 'careful judgement'

Sir, As chairman of the planning committee at Forest Heath District Council I am writing to you about town and country planning.

Deciding a planning application is one of the most important decisions that a district council makes. At Forest Heath we decide nearly 1,000 planning applications every year, ranging from house alterations to large scale developments involving hundreds of houses or commercial buildings. It isn't so many years ago that Center Parcs was a planning application before us, and the expansion of Red Lodge is current.

Deciding whether or not to approve such applications needs careful judgement based upon the legal and policy position, balancing the aspirations of the developer with the rights of those who might object. This is all underpinned by adopted planning policy, the most important of which is the policy drawn up and adopted locally by the council itself. Members take part in regular training so they are equipped to make informed judgements.

Before applications are decided we take expert advice on all manner of issues. We always consult the local town or parish council, and in addition we ask the neighbours what they think (to an extent that goes beyond what is legally required of us), but it is the Forest Heath District Council planning committee which makes the decisions. Only it has access to all the information necessary to make a fully informed and balanced decision.

Having made the decision it is Forest Heath and not the town or parish council who takes responsibility for it, either in defending a decision if an appeal is lodged, or in justifying the development once it is built.

In making decisions the elected councillors of Forest Heath work with council officers, who are employed to give professional advice and to recommend a course of action in every case. They give robust advice on the likely consequences of any course of action councillors might be contemplating and then implement and defend the decision once made.

Planning decisions must be taken properly and there are strict rules to ensure this is the case. Any member of the planning committee, who expresses a view for or against an application, prejudging the decision they will have to give before the planning committee meets to consider it, is prevented from taking part in the debate and decision on that application because of apparent bias. Planning decisions have to be based on the fullest and most up to date information and it is only once this is gathered together that the choice to approve or refuse can be properly made and the councillors deciding it must bring an open mind to the matter.

I am confident that proper regard to the safeguards surrounding the taking of decisions by the Forest Heath District Council planning committee is in the best interests of the whole community and we will continue to ensure these are maintained.

Post office 'assumption' needs more evidence

Sir, I can only assume that Dave Beighton, planning officer, has no elderly relatives living in the vicinity of the Exning Road Post Office who rely on the services on offer (Planners back scheme to turn post office into flats, Weekly News Letters, February 28).

He states that it is not considered that the loss of this convenience store and post office would cause demonstrable harm.

How can he be the judge of that? Has he taken a survey of the residents of the area? Or even considered the effect the loss of this facility will have on all users, particularly the elderly, that would be forced to go into town to conduct post office business.

I think the answers are no but then what can you expect from a department that fails to respond to to an application to erect a mobile phone mast next to Newmarket College?

Clocktower mayhem

Sir, I read with interest the article on the changing of the Clocktower roundabout in Newmarket (Weekly News, February 28).

It said that there would be no specific crossing point for pedestrians. It would be hoped that the traffic would be calmed by slower moving vehicles, owing to the alterations, therefore people would have to take their life in their hands to dodge the cars etc.

This is of course as it is now, but what happens when the 24 flats and three restaurants are built on a piece of ground that is no more than a traffic island?

There are bound to be children living in these flats. Are they to have no safe crossing area? One councillor said to me that "there won't be any children living there, as they will be 'upmarket executive flats'."

Pardon me, but do executives not have children?

Grey's of Ely all wrapped up with new coach

■ Striking design . . . Grey's of Ely's vinyl wrapped coach

Grey's of Ely have just taken delivery of their new Mercedes 29-seat Air-conditioned Midi-coach and decided that they would like a fresh design for their paint scheme.

"As part of our on going vehicle replacement programme we bought the new Mercedes and decided that we wanted a fresh and striking design to update our company image," managing director Richard Grey explains. "Having decided upon a final design we had the problem of getting this onto the coach. It would not have been possible with normal paint and therefore we went for a vinyl wrap instead"

Grey's of Ely approached another local company, Raccoon East Anglia, based at Woolpit in Suffolk. This specialist company has been providing vehicle wrapping for the past 15 years for a variety of vehicle types, from cars to boats to lorries . The company has also won Vehicle Livery of the Year for the past 3 years at the UK Sign Industry Awards.

■ Wrapping Begins . . . Grey's of Ely's plain white coach begins the transformation

"Vehicle wrapping is still in its infancy, with both suppliers and material manufacturers still trying to improve their product offerings", explains Steve Cooper, managing director of Raccoon East Anglia."There are basically three elements that make up a successful vehicle wrap: materials, print method and application".

With every client having their own specific requirements, the correct materials need to be selected to guarantee a successful wrap. Therefore only the latest bubble free film and high performance self adhesive materials are used, this new film allows it to be put on dry to the vehicle. The printing of the design is only limited by the imagination of the design, and is done using PhotoX, which produces vibrant, eye-catching and photographic quality graphics. Finally the film is applied to the vehicle under controlled conditions. After careful planning, this will result in a finished design which can last up to 10 years.

The new coach is already on the road and is used a for variety of work, from weddings to airport transfers to nights out, "We already have two 33-seat Mercedes coaches, which have been very popular with our customers, however this time we decided to increase the amount of leg room and luggage space by reducing the number of seats," comments Richard. "At nearly half the hire price of a full size coach, they offer a very attractive solution to customers looking for coach luxury and ride quality, but at a competitive rate." This latest addition joins the rest of their 19-strong fleet of coaches, in which the average age is just three years old.

Along with air-conditioning the vehicle is fitted with three-point seat-belted reclining seats, personal address system and continental-tinted glass. The vehicle is also environmentally friendly as it is powered by a Euro 4 engine which dramatically reduces its emissions. This will be very important, as this summer sees London's low emission zone come into force, in which all commercial vehicles entering London will have to meet at least Euro 3 standards to avoid being fined £200 per day. Fortunately, all Grey's of Ely's coaches conform to this requirement.

Blood test is first step to end Strangles' hold

In our weekly column, reporter JOHN GOODE takes a look behind the racing scene to bring you news from in and around the stables.

SCIENTISTS based at Newmarket have made an important breakthrough in the battle against a potential fatal disease in horses.

Experts at the Animal Health Trust (AHT) have developed a new diagnostic blood test to detect the infection known as Strangles.

But they are continuing to work on a vaccine and an appeal is being made to raise enough money to finance the research.

The Princess Royal, the trust's president, launched a campaign to tackle the disease a year ago in conjunction with the British Horse Society.

Strangles is the most commonly diagnosed infectious horse disease around the world. It can prove fatal.

Clinical signs include fever, profuse nasal discharge and abscessed lymph nodes of the head and neck.

The swelling of these lymph nodes may, in severe cases, restrict the airway, giving the disease its name as it can literally strangle the animal.

The blood test will allow early detection of Strangles allowing measures to be taken to prevent it from spreading.

Oliver Wilson, campaign director at The British Horse Society, said: "It is fantastic news.

"This big breakthrough is a real boon to horse owners and I believe will lead to a significant drop in outbreaks.

"But there is still much to be done.

"The AHT's work to develop and test a fully effective vaccine against Strangles is ongoing.

"To support it we need to raise another £120,000 by the end of this year to reach the campaign target of £250,000."

Brigadier Paul Jepson, chief executive of the Horse Trust, said: "We are delighted our funding for this project has been so fruitful.

"This represents major progress in our battle to reduce the suffering caused by this common and debilitating disease."

Peter Webbon, chief executive of the Animal Health Trust, said: "Our research scientists have a particular interest in the diagnosis and prevention of Strangles and the development of this diagnostic test is a major milestone.

"Huge thanks go to all of those who have supported the campaign."

The blood test will be available from March 1.

The fundraising campaign, supported by Horse and Hound magazine, includes an appeal to supporters to buy special polo shirts, produced by clothing company Puffa with the campaign slogan printed on them, or run fundraising events.

To find out more details about how to help the appeal to boost research cash visit www.strangles.org For details about the campaign shirts visit www.puffa.com

■ FOOT DOWN . . . female jockeys, Kirsty Milczarek and Hayley Turner.

Calendar girls keep clothes on

SOME of the region's top female jockeys have kept their clothes on for photographs in a sexy coffee table book produced to raise money for charity.

Newmarket-based jockeys Hayley Turner and Kirsty Milczarek are among the riders featured in the book Ladies That Ride.

Although they have previously stripped down to their underwear for a charity calendar, they have kept their clothes on for the book.

In a recent interview Kirsty told the Racing Post: "The photographer was pretty pushy about me taking my clothes off, but I put my foot down and said I wouldn't do that."

But the collection of black and white photographs also features naked and topless models in barns and stables.

Photographer Nigel Holmes has produced the 112-page limited edition book to raise money for the Newmarket-based Injured Jockeys Fund and the Norfolk-based International league for the Protection of Horses.

The book can be ordered, at a cost of £20 plus postage and packing, from the website www.ladiesthatride.com

Drink campaign was 'worthwhile'

A POLICE crackdown against under-age street drinking resulted in just a handful of seizures of beer and cider bottles in the Forest Heath district.

The area, which includes Newmarket and Mildenhall, is believed to have had the lowest results in a county-wide clampdown.

Across Suffolk 240 bottles or cans of beer were seized together with 40 bottles of cider as well as other alcoholic drinks during a two-week campaign.

But in Forest Heath just four cans or bottles of beer were taken from under-age youngsters along with two bottles of cider.

Police safer neighbourhood teams targeted known "hot spots" used by youngsters. But they found that most were not breaking the drink laws.

BY John Goode

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

Those caught with alcohol were given "advice" by officers.

A Suffolk police spokeswoman said it was unclear why so few youngsters were caught breaking the drink laws in the district.

Supt Jon Brighton, operations manager for Suffolk police's west area, said: "All officers who took part in this campaign found it extremely worthwhile.

"We have been able to seize alcohol from young people, potentially cutting the chances of disorder and anti-social behaviour and at the same time we have spoken to them about the implications of drinking alcohol."

He said information gained from youngsters could be used in future campaigns by trading standards to clamp down on shops which sell alcohol to under-age youngsters.

Supt Brighton said: "We intend to repeat this exercise in some parts of the county later in the year.

In the meantime we will continue to tackle any concerns around under-age and public drinking and the behaviour that can accompany it."

He said that further test purchases would be carried out by trading standards and councils to check that shop staff were abiding by the law.

Unwell councillor still in hospital

Councillor Pendleton, 83, represents Mildenhall on Suffolk County Council and has previously been a member of Forest Heath District Council. He has been an elected official for more than 30 years – nearly 20 of them on the county council.

He is said to be making progress in West Suffolk Hospital, Bury St Edmunds.

Prison term on cards for prolific burglar

BY Jo Deeks
Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

Stephen Ellis, 37, admitted three offences of burglary and asked for another 19 to be taken into consideration when he appeared before magistrates at Sudbury on Tuesday.

Rosalind Clark, prosecuting, told the court that a series of burglaries had taken place between September last year and January this year. DNA from blood found after a break-in at Lakenheath Primary School in December was linked to Ellis, as well as a footwear print at the scene.

A window was smashed to get into the building, causing £500 damage, but only around £2 in change was stolen.

When arrested by police, Ellis, of Heathersett Way, Red Lodge, admitted the offence, as well as one at a shop in Monks Eleigh where he stole £200 and another in High Street, Needham Market, where he stole £1,086. Ellis, who has previous convictions for burglary and robbery, was driven around the district by police and pointed out a number of other commercial premises where he had committed burglaries, including one at Clare.

David Stewart, for Ellis, said his client was a professional carer for his wife, who had been paralysed from the neck down after a traffic accident in 2001.

Ellis had turned to online gambling and incurred debts, which was why he committed the offences.

Magistrates adjourned his case until April 3 at Bury St Edmunds magistrates court for an all options pre-sentence report.

David Daniels, chairman of the bench, warned Ellis that imprisonment was an option because of aggravating features, including the number of offences he had committed, the damage he had caused to premises, his previous record and the failure of previous sentences imposed on him.

Mr Daniels said: "You committed these offences intentionally and there are no mitigating features.

"We think these matters are so serious we must consider passing a custodial sentence."

Distance no object for cat reunited with family

CURIOUS cat Forrest has been reunited with his owner three months after he went missing.

His owner, vet Jo Johnson, who lives in Mepal, had given up hope when she had a call from cat lovers Bob and Meg Windsor, who live 20 miles away in Six Mile Bottom, near Newmarket – Forrest had taken up residence with their cats.

They were able to trace Mrs Johnson when they had him scanned and found that he was fitted with a microchip.

It is thought Forrest may have hitched a ride in a vehicle.

Jo said her sons Peter and Alex had been asking where Forrest had gone.

"We were really happy when he came back," she said.

Warning over plane noise at base

AMERICAN Air Force officials have warned that aircraft noise may increase due to additional flights by transport planes.

Extra flights by four-jet C-17 Globemaster III planes are expected at the Mildenhall base during March and April because of runway renovation work at the Incirlik base in Turkey which is the normal hub for heavy airlift planes between the USA and the Middle East.

US Air Force chiefs have said that some flights may be at night during the base's normal "quiet hours" before 6am.

Col Eden Murrie, commander of the base's 100th Air Refuelling Wing, said: "Although we'll do everything in our power to avoid aircraft noise during the designated quiet-hour periods, there may be times when an aircraft must take off during those periods to complete an operational mission."

Thieves take tools

The white Renault Kangoo was parked in Croft Road, Newmarket, between 1pm and 2.10pm on Monday.

Anyone with information should call police Community Support Officer Steven Warby, of the Newmarket North Safer Neighbourhood Team, on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

The Gross rate is the contractual rate of interest payable before deduction of income tax at the rate specified by law (currently 20%).

The Net rate is the rate paid after income tax has been deducted (currently 20%).

The Annual Equivalent Rate (AER) is a notional rate which illustrates what the gross interest rate would be if interest was paid and added to the account annually. AERs on an account which pays monthly interest assumes interest is added to the account at the end of each month during the year. In practice, the option to have interest added in this way is not available on our Hallmark monthly interest option.

The Tax-free rate is the contractual rate of interest payable where interest is exempt from income tax.

All the above rates are variable. Mini Cash and TESSA Only Individual Savings Accounts (ISAs), and Cash Child Trust Fund accounts, pay interest tax-free provided all terms and conditions of the account types are met. On all other accounts, interest will be paid at the net rate after the appropriate rate of income tax (currently 20%) has been deducted, or gross on receipt of the required declaration form. Where interest is paid net, the income tax may be reclaimed if the amount deducted exceeds the investor's tax liability. Higher rate taxpayers will have to pay the extra due (the difference between tax deducted at 20% and the higher rate of 40%). Tax assumptions are based on current legislation which may change in the future. Net rates are illustrative only and have been rounded to two decimal places. Full terms and conditions are available from all our branches. Cambridge Building Society complies with The Banking Code.

NOTICE TO EXISTING BORROWERS

With effect from 6th March 2008, the rate of interest for mortgages will decrease by 0.25% per annum until further notice. The revised Variable Home Loan Rate (equivalent to Standard Variable Rate) will be 6.45% p.a. The revised Commercial Base Rate, for non owner-occupied residential loans, will be 6.95% p.a. Under the annual review system, this change of interest will be reflected in the revised monthly payments effective from March 2009.

This notice does not apply to any mortgage account operated by interim review. Those borrowers will be notified separately.

If you have any queries about this rate change, please contact your nearest branch or telephone our Customer Services Department on 01223 727727

Marie Curie
Devoted to Life

Cancer is the UK's biggest killer. Every year it claims the lives of more than 150,000 people, with a further one million living with the disease at any one time.

Marie Curie Cancer Care is working tirelessly for you and your loved-ones by challenging the disease through its work in cancer care and research.

Every year the charity provides care to around 25,000 cancer patients and their families - entirely free of charge.

In the community, high quality Marie Curie Nursing gives terminally ill people the choice of dying at home, supported by their families.

At our 10 Marie Curie Hospices, we actively promote quality of life for patients and again provide much needed support for their carers.

The charity is also investigating the causes of cancer and better ways to treat the disease at the Marie Curie Research Institute.

Marie Curie Cancer Care Daffodil Emblem

Marie Curie adopted the daffodil emblem in 1986 - the flower is universally recognised as a symbol of renewal. The daffodil is also the emblem of leading cancer charities in Australia, New Zealand, Canada and the Irish Republic.

■ UNDER THREAT . . . one of the trees on The Avenue in Newmarket that could be chopped down for breaking up the pavement.

Reprieve for roadside trees

Fears had been raised that trees in The Avenue, Newmarket, would not be replaced if they are cut down as planned and town councillors remain "very concerned".

Suffolk County Council highways bosses have said the trees should go because their roots are breaking up the pavement.

They have promised to replace all 24 trees and plant an extra 10 new ones, but concerns were raised when the plans were revealed earlier this month. Now the application has been withdrawn after legal experts ruled that planning approval was not needed.

But the county council has promised to carry out more consultation with Newmarket Town Council and Forest Heath District Council before going ahead with the work.

John Howell, a former town councillor who lives in The Avenue, has called for confirmation that the trees can be replaced as planned before the old ones are removed.

He is concerned that cable television and phone providers could object to trees being planted in close proximity to their underground lines.

A proposal to plant trees in the town's High Street several years ago was dropped after a similar problem was discovered.

Councillor Robin Millar, former mayor of Newmarket, told a town council meeting: "I remain very concerned.

"The work could be done tomorrow without any reference to anyone else."

Prescriptions plundered

BURGLARS got away with painkillers and anti-depressants in a raid on a pharmacy.

Thieves broke into Lloyds Pharmacy in Market Place, Mildenhall, through the roof and grabbed prescription drugs.

The drugs are believed to include the painkiller codeine and the sedative diazepam.

A Suffolk police spokeswoman said: "As with any prescription medication, these drugs could be dangerous if consumed by anyone they are not prescribed for."

Anyone with information about the burglary, which took place between 5.30pm on Saturday and 8.45am on Monday, should call Pc Luke Swain at Mildenhall police on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Treasure hunters' £1k fine

TREASURE hunters were caught as they tried to plunder an archaeological site.

Three men using metal detectors were arrested after going onto the site in the middle of the night.

The owner of the land at Icklingham, near Mildenhall, alerted police after spotting the men using an image-enhancing device he bought following previous incidents.

The land, a designated ancient monument, is believed to have been the site of a Roman settlement.

The men, Alan Chapman, 37; Ricky McCabe, 34; and David Miller, 40; all from Chadwell St Mary, near Grays, Essex; admitted going equipped for theft when they appeared at Ipswich Crown Court.

They had originally denied going onto the land on April 14 last year to search for historic artefacts and had been due to face a trial.

Chapman was fined £500 and the other two defendents were fined £250. They were each ordered to pay £250 prosecution costs.

The court heard a fourth man arrested at the same time was given a police caution.

Prosecutor Godfried Duah said the men had located a number of items on the land before police arrived but nothing they had found was of great value.

Andrew Thompson, Chapman's lawyer, told the court that his client had become involved in a hobby that had gone beyond the limits laid down in law.

Garden plan opposed

PLANS to build a house and double garage in the garden of an existing house are set to be rejected by councillors.

The scheme, proposed for a garden in Kennett Road, Moulton, was opposed by Moulton and Kentford parish councils and some neighbours.

Now Forest Heath District Council's planning committee has indicated that it intends to refuse permission – even though the council's own planning experts have said the scheme is acceptable.

The application for planning permission will be reconsidered at the next meeting of the committee when formal reasons for refusal will be put forward.

Council wants revamp for HQ despite merger threat

A £3.2 MILLION revamp for a council's headquarters is moving ahead – despite concern about costs and the long-term future of the council.

BY John Goode
Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

Forest Heath District Council wants to update its offices in College Heath Road, Mildenhall, which are more than 25 years old.

The building has suffered from roof leaks and a poor heating system.

The council is hoping to provide space in the building for "partner" organisations such as the police and other councils.

There is space in the building following the departure of council staff to other organisations which have taken over work previously done by the council.

Most of the authority's housing staff transferred to King's Forest Housing, which took over all the district's council houses, and finance staff have joined the Thetford-based Anglia Revenues Partnership which collects Council Tax and other payments for three councils.

But the future of the council, the smallest in Suffolk, is in question after the Government announced a review of local authority functions across the county which could involve mergers of existing bodies.

A report to the council meeting yesterday called for Nigel McCurdy, the council's strategic director (services) to be given authority to take decisions about the scheme in consultation with a special Office Refurbishment Project board.

Consultants AW Business Solutions have been called in to act as project managers. But the final decision on the scheme will not be taken until a council meeting on July 16.

Councillors have supported the scheme which, they say, will improve staff morale by providing better working conditions.

It should also make it easier for the authority to recruit staff.

A report to the council by Mr McCurdy says that improved working conditions for staff should improve the council's performance across all of its functions.

He has argued that the scheme could be delayed unless he is given authority to push ahead with the project.

Although the scheme has cross-party support, some opposition councillors are worried about the cost.

Green to be fenced to deter camps

NEWMARKET'S central green is due to be fenced next month to discourage unauthorised camps by travellers.

The move to fence The Severals green follows an "invasion" by travellers last summer.

Caravans, lorries and cars parked on the green for almost a week until the town council and Jockey Club Estates got a court order.

The families returned less than a month later but only stayed for around two hours after police warned them they could be arrested for breaking the court order.

As a result, the town council, which is in charge of the main part of the green, has agreed to have it fenced.

Jockey Club Estates, which owns a strip of land around the edge of the green, will carry out the work over two days in April.

A wooden post and rail fence is due to be put up, leaving access points for pedestrians and other legitimate users of the green.

The town council is paying for the fence and is phasing the cost of around £5,000 over two years.

Kiwi comedy

A NIGHT of high-octane verbal gymnastics is on offer from Kiwi funnyman Jarred Christmas who headlines the Jesterlarf Comedy Club at the Junction Shed in Cambridge tomorrow.
The comedian won five star reviews with his sold-out run at the Edinburgh Festival and is supported on the night by easy going one-line master James Dowdswell and award winning Welsh funnyman Lloyd Langford. Compere for the evening is the improv maestro John Ryan.

Acoustic aristocracy revisit their roots

VETERANS of the Cambridge music scene Ezio will be playing a double header at The Boathouse on the city's Mitcham's Corner this week.
The acoustic folk rockers feature the guitar maestro Mark "Booga" Fowell and songwriter Ezio Lunedi and have been playing together for more than 15 years.
They will be playing The Boathouse tonight and Saturday ahead of the release of a live album and DVD which was recorded in Germany.
The band has a solid following in Europe but will be attempting to spread the love a little further when they head out to America in June.
"We're trying to get a foothold there but it is so ridiculously vast. We'll just start on the East Coast and stay for a couple of weeks working our way along," says Booga.
"It should be great, and hopefully the start of something new and exciting."
Tickets for the Boathouse are £10.

Footballers' lives and great chemistry

By Nik Shelton

WITH a number one debut album under their belts The Hoosiers are obviously doing something right.
The three-piece band's first album The Trick to Life was a runaway success and helped them launch what they like to call Odd-Pop.
"I don't have just one genre of music in my tape collection," says drummer Alfonso Sharland. "I didn't grow up just wanting to be The Cure, Jeff Buckley, The Flaming Lips or XTC.
"We didn't always feel like just playing Brit-pop or whatever. This was a huge problem for us in terms of finding our sound."
Alfonso and lead singer Irwin Sparkes grew up together on the outskirts of Reading and at the tender age of 16 they found tutorage from an unlikely source.
"How can you write about life when you haven't lived it? Go live, then write about it."
The wise words came from Irwin's chemistry teacher – also the drummer from 70s group Sailor.
So they took his advice and went off on a road-trip to America.
Along the way they found themselves at the University of Indianapolis after they were both offered football scholarships there.

■ ROAD TRIP . . . The Hoosiers' tour rolls into Cambridge on Monday. CP.

"After a year of tasting life in the Mid-West of America, we'd had enough of that," Alfonso says.
"Something clicked and I guess we both knew we had to go home and get all these songs out. That and we were asked to leave the university.
"To get started in London we needed to assemble a crack team of musical commandos.
"We were up cack-alley, booked in a studio under Brick Lane with a bassist that had ceased to exist – he'd done one on us and who should be the engineering assistant but Martin Skarendahl. I could have sworn he was shimmering from an ethereal haze the day we met his ugly mug."

The new friends bashed out a catchy bag of pop melodies, including the stomping radio hit Worried About Ray and the rest, as they say, is history.

The Hoosiers are at the Cambridge Corn Exchange on Monday, March 10. To book call (01223) 357851.

Play takes trip through time

TWO of the country's most celebrated playwrights collaborate across the centuries for Cambridge Arts Theatre's A Trip to Scarborough.
The play, which follows holiday makers at a seaside hotel, was first written by Richard Sheridan in 1777. In 1982 Alan Aykbourn, himself a resident of the titular Yorkshire town, updated the play by adding in a storyline set in the 1940s. Last year he repeated the trick and added in a third strand set today.
Adrian McCloughlin, who plays the hotel porter, explains further:
"Alan has taken the old Sheridan play and he's used elements of the old storyline and scenes from the original play and then he's written parallel storylines for 1942 and in this version, 2007.
"All the characters recur in each of the three time zones. It's quite complex to do but it's great fun to do."
A Trip to Scarborough by Alan Ayckbourn is on until Saturday. Tickets are £10-£27. Call (01223) 503333.

NEWMARKET WEEKLY NEWS

MOTORING

Risk-takers still driving and texting

ALMOST half of Britain's motorists regularly flout the law by texting and driving, putting themselves and other road users at risk, according to new figures released by the RAC Foundation.

A poll of 2,000 Facebook users has revealed that 45 per cent of UK drivers use short message services (SMS) while driving. Just 11 per cent of motorists turn off their phones or switch them to mute.

The survey marks the first anniversary of the increase in penalties for using a hand-held phone at the wheel. Motorists now receive a £60 fine and three penalty points for using their mobile phone while driving, which includes texting and driving. It was discovered in the survey that the young and techno-savvy were more likely to text and drive in congested parts of the country, and that the level of texting whilst driving differs throughout the UK. It is highest in London (53 per cent) and lowest in Aberdeen (31 per cent).

The survey has identified five distinct groups of texting drivers on UK roads. They are:

Multi-tasking multimedia maestros: 21 per cent of all motorists read and send texts in free-flowing traffic. Dominated by techno-savvy men aged 18-24.

Opportunistic optimisers: 19 per cent of drivers read and/or send text messages when in a jam.

Non-reactive realists: 44 per cent of all motorists. They will not text whilst driving, but will leave their phone audible.

Casual observers: A mere 5 per cent of the driving population. Read their texts in traffic, but don't respond or send messages.

Trendsetting team players: 11 per cent of drivers make up this final group of motorists. They responsibly switch off their phones or put them on mute to avoid distractions.

Cupra gets dash of BTCC road buzz

■ CHROME-TIPPED . . . Cupra K1 is a very special edition.

FRESH for the imminent '08' plate change, Seat is giving its most potent road-going model – the muscular Leon Cupra – the option of an even more sporty look thanks to a limited edition styling kit.

The additions to the Leon's style make the 238bhp, turbocharged 2.0-litre Cupra look even more like the race-winning Seat Sport BTCC car, which is set to compete for top honours again this year.

Boasting a bespoke K¹ boot badge, the limited edition car's styling additions include extensively re-worked front and rear bumpers, side skirts, a more pronounced rear spoiler and a chrome-tipped, centrally-mounted, oval exhaust.

The K¹ comes in a range of dramatic colours: Inferi Black, Emocion Red, Luna Grey and Candy White, and it's available to order now at just £1,000 more than the standard Cupra.

The K¹ arrives at the same time as a change to the Leon range-topper's equipment list. Bi-xenon headlights with dynamic bend lighting is now an £870 option. New 18-inch Orion alloy wheels in black or white are also an option at £205.

The best news for Cupra fans, though, is that the standard car's price has been reduced, from £19,695 to £19,495. The body-kitted K¹ therefore costs £20,499.

Seat UK's head of marketing, Steve Robertson, said of the Cupra changes: "The K¹ styling kit gives the car even more road presence, and clearly recalls the look of our super-quick BTCC competitor."

■ THE SEAT LEON CUPRA K1 . . . super-quick.

Latest Merc's a C-Class apart

FIRST DRIVE

With so much space inside!

RODNEY TIBBS

YOU could call the new C-Class estate a 50/50 sort of car.

Sales between retail and fleet customers will be about 50/50, the split between diesel engines and petrol will be about 50/50 and if you add up the extra amount of cargo space and compare it to the passenger space it is – you've guessed it – around 50/50!

As with all new Mercedes products it does not strike you as radically different, but if you put the profile of the new machine over the old, you will see a big increase in headroom at the rear, with a consequent ability to carry more.

These days you cannot claim to make an all-embracing estate if it will not hold a washing machine complete with its box and packing. Volvo's big estate does just that so the new Merc had to match it which, of course, it does.

In the case of the German manufacturer, it is treading a difficult tightrope. Of course the new car should continue to appeal to all those existing and loyal customers. But Mercedes is very keen that younger people should be attracted to the marque, and apparently the way you do this is to make the car look more aggressive.

So the top-of-the-range Sport versions of the new estate take the famous three-pointed star off the top of the bonnet and plant it in the middle of the radiator grill. The lines of the car are slightly adjusted too, so you can go out, be young, become upwardly mobile and exercise your aggression.

Having got its customers Mercedes is determined to keep them safe. Pre-Safe, which prepares car and passengers for an accident when hidden sensors detect the inevitable, is standard on all new models. The Adaptive Brake system, along with seven airbags and crash-responsive Neck-Pro front head restraints, all are included to make certain the owner and passengers return to replace their car with another of the same make.

There are three individual model lines, SE, Elegance and Sport, and a choice of eight engines, all of which have been reworked to provide more power and less fuel consumption.

The engine range consists of four petrol engines (one of which has two power variants) and two diesel (one with two different power outputs). There are two 1.8 four-cylinder petrol units and there are three V6 power units. The diesels include two 2.2-litre engines and one V6 three-litre.

Having driven most of the range I would think the 2.2-litre diesel offering 170bhp (there is an alternative at 136bhp) does everything you might need. It is smooth, refined, quiet and still knocks up a top speed of 139mph with consumption at 46.3 to the gallon.

BASICALLY . . .

Very much the C-Class estate as before so beloved of the English middle classes. This time round you get even more green wellie room.

USED CAR GUIDE — Skoda Octavia vRS

vRS Octavia is practical hot hatch

WOW – that's the verdict of anyone who's ever enjoyed the driving thrills the Octavia vRS has to offer, writes Mike Scialom.

The first hot saloons to roll off the production line in 2001 brought Skoda to the attention of hot hatch fans for the first time. It helped that the VW-owned marque enjoyed Golf underpinnings and the understated petrolhead cues did no harm to the core market either.

With the same 1.8-litre 180bhp unit used for the Golf GTi, the Seat Leon 20V and even the Audi TT, the prognosis was always going to be good for the Czech firm's first foray into the outside lane.

Boosted by 17-inch alloys, green brake callipers, spoiler, stainless steel exhaust and some cute badging, the Octavia vRS is aiming for Mondeo ST220 and Vectra VXR aficionados. Inside you get two-tone seats, metallic-effect trim and some leather – just to remind you that Skoda has some rally roots too.

The reason why you're likely to be able to pick up a bargain vRS is that Skoda prices have gradually been creeping up – the current vRS will set you back £17,725 – and that price increase hasn't quite been matched by the improved handling and on-road dynamics that you're guaranteed with Ford/Vauxhall options. So then it becomes a question of, if you really care about having hot hatch thrills on any road surface, are you prepared to pay the extra for the thoroughbred or will you settle for the nearly-there version?

■ VERSATILE . . . available in estate or hatchback form for understated driving thrills.

Used prices are more rewarding for the original Octavia vRS which was produced between 2001 and 2005. In 2006 the updated version was introduced, and the styling appears to have become overly subdued – although the power is now provided by a 2.0-litre unit offering 197bhp and a convincing 206lb ft torque. What a pity the engine note doesn't reflect the beast within!

That the earlier model stands up to extended use is proven by the fact that several police forces adopted it, and it's a popular taxi option – and you can be sure that both of these sectors pick a motor that stands up to close scrutiny.

Get behind the wheel and you'll notice that the cabin layout, although efficient, lacks pizzazz. This is mirrored by the somewhat rubbery handling and the slightly unresponsive brakes. But these quibbles should be set next to the fact that this is a safe and sturdy motor – an odd mix for a performance car, but one that makes it a great used option.

Reliable used Korean motors are fine value

■ THE HYUNDAI SANTA FE . . . good qualities include being well-equipped and easy to live with.

■ THE KIA SEDONA . . . friendly people carrier.

RELIABLE cars from Hyundai and Kia come under the spotlight of buyer advice website UsedCarExpert.com.

The online outfit's Matt Tumbridge has this to say about the brands: "Cruising down a local bypass recently, I saw something I have never seen before – a Kia had broken down.

"I've seen almost every other car break down, but Kia and Hyundai always seem to just go," he adds.

Of course, it doesn't matter if they don't, reckons Tumbridge, as owners are unlikely to foot the bill: "Both brands come with long guarantees. Now, they are getting the hang of attractive design too, so it is worth giving them a second look when going to buy used."

That said, Tumbridge chooses three worth thinking about – "before everyone else catches on and prices rise".

■ Kia Sedona – "This is a great, big friendly people carrier, that always costs less," says Tumbridge. "Easy to live with, too, and it easily takes seven. But it is proving popular on the used market, so be careful what you pay," he warns.

Most economical model is the 2.9CRDi, returning an overall 36.2mpg, and best used buy is any of the post-2001 improved models, with at least SX spec.

UsedCarExpert.com lists 12 pre-buy checks, and sister operation Used Car Expert magazine prices a 2.9 CRDi from 2003, with just under 50k miles on the clock, at around £7,750.

■ Hyundai Santa Fe – "The new one looks much better, but the old shape has good qualities too," says Matt Tumbridge.

"You will find it a well-equipped and easy to live with 4x4. It is fine around town, although engines are a little thirsty. As ever, the low-image badge means lower prices," he adds.

Most economical model is the 2.0TD, with its average 37.2mpg, and the not-so-popular 2.7 V6 is the best used buy, as it gets leather trim and just about every extra.

UsedCarExpert.com has 10 fault checks listed, and Used Car Expert magazine prices a 2003 2.0 TD at around £7,600, provided mileage isn't much more than 45,000.

■ Hyundai Coupe – "This model is very pretty, and good for cruising if not hard driving," asserts Tumbridge. "The interior feels cheap, but, overall, this is a great-value package – and who cares about the badge?"

Most economical model is the 1.6, returning a 34mpg average, and best used buy is the 2.0 SE, and also the F2 limited edition models.

Again, UsedCar Expert.com lists 10 pre-buy checks, and Used Car Expert magazine prices a 2004 2.0 SE, with 30,000 miles under its belt, at around £8,625.

Perfume for your motor

FOR many of us our car is one of the rare spaces where we get some time to ourselves, so it is vital that we make it a comfortable haven to enjoy.

New Ambi Pur Car 2Switch is the first in-car air freshener that allows you to choose between two fragrances. The stylish device has two bottles of perfume, which allow you to manually switch between the two fragrances to complement your mood.

Ambi Pur Car 2Switch is available in two invigorating variants of Mountain Drive and Asian Cruise. Mountain Drive allows you to select either the aroma of fresh water or the embracing scent of freshly cut wood while Asian Cruise allows you to switch between the fragrances of fresh wet grass and exotic ginger. Both are at Halfords at £6.99 for a starter pack and £4.99 for a refill.

MOTORING

Chrysler revises 300C line-up

ALREADY an attention grabber, Chrysler is hoping the 300C will stand out even more this year following a revised exterior and updated interior throughout the range. The company will also launch an entirely new model in the UK – the diesel-powered "SRT-Design".

Changes have been made to the rear fascia and rear light clusters while the rear saloon boot lid is also new and now includes an integrated spoiler.

A MyGIG infotainment system is a new option that includes MP3 player compatibility, a touch screen controlled navigation system and the ability to store around 1,600 songs on an internal 20GB hard drive.

The 300C SRT-Design model is available as a saloon or an estate, both varients holding a 3.0-litre V6 diesel engine. The basic 300C comes with a choice of two engines for the saloon model; a 215bhp 3.0-litre V6 or a mighty 6.1-litre Hemi V8 pushing out 425bhp, while the Touring estate offers the 3.0-litre V-6 engine.

Super Seven unveiled

FOR those wanting an expression of British sports car exclusivity, Caterham Cars has joined forces with RS Performance to offer the ultimate coachbuilt Seven.

With almost every one of the 12,000 Sevens on the road differing from one another, Caterham has long held a personalised motoring philosophy. The new venture takes that philosophy to a new level.

RS Performance is a niche engineering house. Founded by Russell Savory, it will offer an "everything-is-possible" service to Caterham customers wanting cars truly built to order. Using the motorsport-honed Caterham chassis and benchmark technology as a base, RS Performance, will "turn imagination into reality," says Savory.

Inside every RS Seven will be the unique RST-V8 engine. Developed over 16 years, the 40-valve, 2.4-litre V8 produces 400bhp and weighs only 90kg. A supercharged version is available producing more than 500bhp too.

The lightweight V8, matched to the featherweight Seven chassis delivers a power-to-weight ratio of more than 1,000bhp per tonne – more than double that of a Bugatti Veyron.

With a 12-week waiting time and costing more than £115,000, the carbon fibre and Kevlar built RS Caterham will certainly be exclusive.

YOUTH RUGBY

Hat-trick stars lift Newmarket

UNDER-EIGHT

Ipswich 15 Newmarket 10

THE first match of Newmarket's series against Ipswich and Windsor was closely contested with Sam McNaughton twice putting Newmarket ahead.

Ipswich 10 Newmarket 40

NEWMARKET had it all their own way against a less-experienced Ipswich team. Joe May, Harry Robbins, McNaughton and Thomas Parsley scored tries to back a hat-trick from a loaned player.

Windsor 20 Newmarket 25

TRIES from Robbins and May in the first half were both countered by a well-organised Windsor side. But, in a tit-for-tat affair, Robbins completed a hat-trick to give his side the edge.

Ipswich 30 Newmarket 20

WILL Christie ran the length of the pitch to score Newmarket's first and clever side-stepping from Tage McEwan-Jonsson secured their second. Although they added further tries from McEwan-Jonsson and Josh Dadds, Newmarket were punished for lapses in concentration.

Ipswich 30 Newmarket 50

A HAT-TRICK of hat-tricks from Dadds, Christie and McEwan-Jonsson were the result of severe Newmarket pressure, and although Ipswich threatened, Charlie Jones' try took the game out of reach.

Windsor 35 Newmarket 15

A TIRED and disorganised defence was pulled apart in the second half by a clinical Windsor side. Jones, McEwan-Jonsson and Christie got their tries.

UNDER-NINE

Ipswich 20 Newmarket 30

NEWMARKET showed they had learned their training lessons and romped to their first victory of the year. Controlled aggression all round, especially from Michael Le and Bradley Goss, took its toll and tries came from Drew Wiley (2), Millie Lee (2), and Le (2).

Ipswich 20 Newmarket 10

UNDER-10

Ipswich A 35 Newmarket 0

NEWMARKET did not help themselves against a physically-dominant, fast Ipswich side by committing handling errors. They trailed 20-0 at the break and, as their defence tired, Ipswich scored three more tries.

Ipswich B 5 Newmarket 25

POSITIONAL changes gave Newmarket the upper hand as both backs and forwards worked as a team, despite several players having to cope with new positions. Ewan Bryson made an excellent debut at scrum-half and the tries came from Max McKrill (2), Sam Christie, Alex Martin, and Sam Wade.

UNDER-11

Newmarket 28

Wendens Ambo 7

CONCEDING an early try did not faze Newmarket, who found the first half tough going against a useful pack. But they stepped up a gear after the break and tries from Michael Bartram, Adam Moss, Bob Challinor, Harry Dow and Jack Barker gave them the upper hand, although Anton Phillips' brilliant tackle stopped Wendens bringing the score back to 14-12.

Newmarket 35 Haverhill 5

NEWMARKET attacked from the start and were dominant in the loose. Taking advantage of the penalties conceded, Challinor, Barker (2), Bartram, Harry Agnew scored the tries in a convincing win.

UNDER-12

Newmarket 7 Ipswich 26

A SLIGHTLY-depleted Newmarket side found themselves up against one of the tallest, strongest teams that they have faced this season. They were four tries adrift after 20 minutes but dug in, and inspired by their forwards, took the game to Ipswich and were rewarded with an impressive try from debut-making Joseph Garrod. Oliver Green converted.

Ipswich 7 Newmarket 7

NEWMARKET carried forward their second-half performance from the first game into the shorter second match. Although they shipped an early try, they ran themselves into the ground and Joe Stafford scored a deserved equaliser, Green converting.

UNDER-13

Newmarket 31

Saffron Walden 5

AFTER a slow start Newmarket completed a comfortable victory against Saffron Walden. Alex Kathro, Sam Hillary, Alastair Kingdon (2), and James Ellis-Saunders got the tries with Callum Downing adding three conversions.

UNDER-14

Newmarket 19 St Ives 19

NEWMARKET went agonisingly close to beating the county champions, who beat them by five unanswered tries earlier in the season. Both teams scored their tries when they had the benefit of the strong wind, but Newmarket saw a potential victory slip away when their final conversion attempt drifted wide.

EVENTING

■ EASY DOES IT . . . Oliver Townend clears a fence on Clover Curtis.

Townend off to good start

THE British eventing season started at the weekend with the traditional two-day meeting at Isleham, held in aid of CLIC Sargent.

Now in its 17th year, the meeting, hosted by Clem Tompsett MBE and organised by Col Chris Wells, has so far raised £116,000 for five charities with this year's reaping £5,000.

More than 600 entries were received, headed by Team GB rider and European team gold medal winner Oliver Townend and GB squad members Piggy French and Polly Stockton.

Saturday's competitions were for the Pre-novice and Intro classes and ran over seven sections. Townend and French gave some of their younger horses a run out in the Tigga's Saddlery Pre-Novice, but victory in the three sections went to Molly Lakin on Cotswold Rival, Fergus Payne (Rime Frost) and Emily Clark (Trelights).

Royston's Owen Moore on Salvation – a horse owned by Little Downham couple Tina and Bob Ure – was third in the Open Pre-Novice class behind Dominic Ruane on Cinquieme.

The first Isleham Fresh Produce Intro section saw Little Downham rider Polly Taylor finish second on her new horse Secret Passion. They were just one point behind section winners Georgina Rodwell (M.Mistoffelffes III). The other two sections were won by Sophie Adams (Surely A Crime) and Milly Herbert (Take Your Pick).

Sunday saw the competition move to the Novice and Intermediate classes run in seven sections. The first CJ Murfitt Novice class was won by French on Loughshore Comedy Act while Soham's rising star Fiona Jonason was ninth in her first competitive outing on her own horse Ardfield Golden.

The second section was won by Ian Wills (Tredinnick) with French third and eighth riding Ballyraggett and Avescot Prada respectively. Emily Gilruth won the Open Novice event on Vanilla Sky while the Tompsett Growers Junior section was won by Chloe Kirkpatrick (Task Master).

Ely's Pretoria Lee (Multimedia) and Cambridge rider Isabelle Edmondson (Dun Deliberately) were placed in the junior section, while in the intermediate-novice class Jonason, on fit-again Zin Zan Tiger, was sixth, just six points behind eventual winner Henry Dove.

The two intermediates attracted a quality entry. In the Isleham Fresh Produce Ltd section Andrew James (Cudlic Earl) was just two points clear of Townend, who was second and third with ODT Master Rose and Tribal Leader.

The final section, the Tompsett Burgess Growers Ltd Open, had another close finish. Townend, on Clover Curtis, led after the dressage but had a fence down in the show-jumping, handing the lead to his partner French, who went clear on Chase The Moon. In the deciding cross-country both jumped clear but French incurred two more time penalty points than Townend, who started last.

HOCKEY: IT'S CHAMPAGNE STUFF FROM THE CHAMPIONS

Thomas tops spree

City of Peterborough 1 Newmarket 7

CAMBS WOMEN'S LEAGUE, PREMIER DIVISION

NEWMARKET played with the confidence of league champions against relegation-haunted Peterborough, Di Thomas slamming four goals as the visitors turned on the style.

However, the strugglers swarmed around the Town D in the early stages and went ahead before Newmarket slipped into gear.

They equalised when superb build-up play on the right led to the unmarked Thomas clipping home Claire McDonnell's cross.

With Newmarket starting to move the ball around confidently, Beth Wombwell sent them further ahead, nutmegging the keeper and scoring after a fine run.

Peterborough's response – three short-corner plays – were comfortably dealt with by the well-positioned Sam Smith and defenders Louise Downs, Claire McDonnell and Isabel Hooley, while at the other end the visitors scored freely, Thomas making it 3-1 after a pinpoint pass by Hayley Stoneman to the left of the D.

There was no respite for Peterborough after the break. Thomas hit the target again after good interlinking from Sarah Haird and McDonnell, and Hayley Stoneman got her fifth of the season after cleverly poking in a rebound off the keeper. Tania Parker then spotted the unmarked Haird on the left post and she claimed Town's sixth.

A lapse in concentration gave Peterborough the chance to reduce the scoreline but Zoe Bailey cleared off the line, and the wake-up call was heeded when Thomas reverse-flicked Tracy Cockerill's pass into the net to complete a satisfying win.

Parry's thrust earns victory

RUGBY UNION: Josh Parry scored two tries to keep Newmarket's eye on second place in Eastern Counties League, Division Two with a 25-12 win over Ipswich YM.
Skipper Martin Hughes started the scoring with a penalty after 20 minutes, before Alistair Walker grabbed the first try in the corner after a break by impressive flanker Jim Tebbitt, which was converted by Hughes.
After some quick phases of play, Parry got his first in the corner, and in the final move of the half, Tebbitt, Mike Reeves and Hughes combined to put in David Fisher to score, giving Newmarket a 20-0 half-time lead.
Parry got his second touchdown after the break before Ipswich hit back with a converted penalty try and another underneath the posts.

Withers leads way

ATHLETICS: Jim Withers led home the Newmarket Joggers' contingent who tackled the undulating Wymondham 20-mile race in blustery conditions on Sunday.
Withers, who was 75th, clocked 2hr 41min 46sec in a race that is seen as ideal preparation for the spring marathons.
Simon Waterhouse (2:53.25) was next home in the 200-runner field, followed by Camilla Milbank and Gemma Dawson, who crossed the line together (2:59.25) in their first race at the distance.
Carolynn Anderson (3:08.53) was the last Jogger in as men's team captain Brian Munns suffered an injury at the 16-mile mark.
■ Joggers have organised another long-distance training run on Sunday for those involved in early-season marathons. They will leave Newmarket Leisure Centre at 9.30am and further details are available from Jenny O'Callaghan on 079800 897585.

Club's tribute

BOXING: The New Astley club will pay tribute to late former coach John Humphrey at their annual show in Newmarket on Friday.
Humphrey died aged 47 in November following a long battle with cancer, having built a club with a strong reputation. The show at the club will be attended by his family including sons John – who won Southern Area and British Masters titles – and Thomas, a former NACYP Championships semi-finalist.
Tickets cost £10 adults and £5 for children and are available from the New Astley Club or by calling 01638 662828.

Palmius cleans up

SNOOKER: Eva Palmius bounced back from a first-round exit at the women's Connie Gough National Championships in Luton on Saturday to win the Plate competition. The 48 year old from Isleham, who lost 3-2 to 11-year-old England international Hannah Jones in the main competition, beat Vicky Ashby (Hemel Hempstead) 2-1 to lift the Plate.

It's just nuts for Huff

ROB Huff is already facing an uphill task to challenge for the World Touring Car Championships title after he was forced to retire in both opening rounds of the 2008 series in Brazil.
The Newmarket-based driver was looking to start the new season with a bang in Curitiba after signing a three-year deal with RML Chevrolet over the winter.
And it was an explosive start, but not in the way Huff, nor his team-mates Alain Menu and Nicola Larini had in mind – all three Lacettis were back in the pits after seven laps of round one.
Qualifying put the 28-year-old Huff in eighth place, which gave him a good chance of claiming pole for round two as long as he could hold his position from the start. But, on lap three, Larini had a problem with his gearbox and ran into Huff's car. It finished the Italian's race, and he joined Menu, who was already back in the pits after being punted off by Jordi Gene in a Seat.
Huff, fifth before the accident, managed to soldier on having slipped down to ninth, but the race was over by lap seven when his rear suspension collapsed.
The Seats of Yvan Muller and Rickard Rydell managed to hold off the BMWs of Augusto Farfus and Jorg Muller to claim a one-two.

■ ROB HUFF . . . early exits in both races.

Huff suffered another early exit in race two after the back end of his car was wrecked by a shunt from Tiago Monteiro in his Seat on the opening lap. The next thing Huff's mechanical team knew, their man was limping back to the pits on three wheels after his left-back tyre had been twisted off in the impact.
Menu was 10th and Larini 12th behind Gabriele Tarquini won in his Seat.
Huff said: "Unfortunately I have had one of the shortest race weekends of my career. It's a pity, because all three of us had a good car and we could have had a really good start to the season."

AT LAST! JOHNSON'S MEN GET FIRST WIN IN 10 GAMES

Luck swings for Jockeys

■ TONY BECK . . . opened scoring

Newmarket Town 2
Kirkley & Pakefield 0

RIDGEONS LEAGUE, PREMIER DIVISION

GOALS from Tony Beck and Mark Angel midway through each half saw basement boys Newmarket pick up their first Ridgeons League, Premier Division win of 2008 at the expense of February's team of the month Kirkley & Pakefield.

The Jockeys controlled the early exchanges and were rewarded with the opener from Beck halfway through the opening 45 minutes.

And a second from Angel at a similar time in the second half was enough to bank the first set of three points for boss Karl Johnson's relegation candidates in 10 attempts.

The Newmarket boss said: "It was a good result for us, but it has been coming for a while. All we needed was some luck and we got that with the timing of the goals."

The much-needed win was made all the more sweeter by the fact that fellow strugglers Histon reserves lost 2-0 to champions Wroxham and Ipswich Wanderers drew 2-2 with Haverhill Rovers.

And Harwich & Parkeston, who are just one place out of the drop zone but 11 points ahead of Newmarket, also lost 3-1 in Lowestoft.

The Jockeys will be hoping they can now go on a run – starting with a home clash against King's Lynn reserves on Saturday at the Town Ground – to defy the odds and stay up.

Swaffham 1 Mildenhall 1

RIDGEONS LEAGUE, PREMIER DIVISION

MILDENHALL'S joint-manager Tony Lyes was not impressed by the poor state of the Swaffham pitch nor the physical approach from the hosts as Mildenhall had to settle for a point.

The visitors led after 20 minutes, John Sands putting the ball away at the second attempt after his initial shot was saved.

However, Swaffham imposed themselves on the match and equalised not long afterwards.

Lyes, Hall's joint-boss, said: "We like to get the ball down and play, but the pitch was awful. They stifled us after we took the lead, and they kicked anything that moved.

"We let them employ their bully-boy tactics, but they didn't create anything apart from the goal."

Mildenhall face Haverhill Rovers, who have not lost to their near neighbours in four games so far this term, at Recreation Way on Saturday.
